'Port Edward hires New Chief Administrative Officer'

'With pleasure I would like to announce that Danielle Myles Wilison, presently Manager of Economic Development for the City of Terrace, is the new Chief Administrative Officer for the District of Port Edward' said Mayor Knut Bjorndal today.

'After a Canada wide Executive Search conducted by James R. Craven & Associates, (a local government recruiter with many years of experience in British Columbia), and reviewing 45 candidates, a short list was prepared with the collaboration of our Council.

Interviews were held with the top three candidates several weeks ago in Port Edward.

Prior to the shortlist Members of Council were also interviewed by Craven to ascertain the Council's 'Desired Qualities of the Perfect Candidate'.

The shortlisted candidates all brought a great deal to the interviews with the Council, but Danielle had the perfect combination of the qualities we were seeking as a Council', said the Mayor.

Danielle leaves the City of Terrace as Manager of Economic Development, was previously Regional Manager of the Economic Operations Branch, and before that Policy Analyst for the BC Ministry of Aboriginal Relations.

We were delighted when she decided to apply for the newly posted position of Chief Administrative Officer' said Mayor Bjorndal.
